

Title: Adjunct Professor

Division: University Studies

University Studies is always accepting applications for the adjunct instructors for the following foundation courses: Critical Writing; The Contemporary World; Analytical Reasoning; and The African American Experience. Please see our website for more information about these specific courses.

Department/Program Overview:

University Studies (UNST) is the interdisciplinary general education curriculum of North Carolina Agricultural and State University and provides the intellectual foundation for the University's degree-granting programs. Its goal is to provide students with a framework for critical inquiry that serves as a foundation for continuing academic development and life-long learning. Motivated by the principle that scholarship is best learned by the way it is practiced, University Studies applies discovery, inquiry, analysis, and application in the classroom to promote: broad-based critical-thinking skills, effective written and oral communication of ideas, appreciation for diverse cultures, and commitment to ongoing civic engagement and social responsibility. Through coursework and co-curricular experiences, the University Studies core curriculum develops in students an understanding of the interdisciplinary nature of knowledge, encourage cross-disciplinary dialogue, and promotes the development of intentional learners who take responsibility for their learning.

Primary Duties and Responsibilities:

Because of the nature of our general education program – the fact that much of our work is done collaboratively and we maintain high assessment standards and data records – adjuncts in this division are expected to attend bi-monthly team meetings, maintain clear records of assessment data, communicate with the course coordinator (and Deans, when appropriate) in a timely manner, and work collaboratively with others in the division.

Qualifications:

M.S., M.A., M.F.A., or Ph.D. Candidates must have at least 18 hours of graduate courses in a specific area to be eligible to teach the different foundation courses.

Application Procedure:

Interested applicants should submit an Administrative and Faculty Employment Application, a current resume:

Dr. Joseph L. Graves, Jr.
Dean of University Studies
108A Hines Hall
North Carolina A&T State University
1601 E. Market Street
Greensboro, NC 27411

Salary: Negotiable, based on qualifications

Application Deadline: Applications are accepted on an open basis to be kept on file in the division. Depending on need and circumstances, applicants will be contacted.
